EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT

Engaged employees work passionately and feel profound connections to their company which moves the entire company forward. They innovate, they create, and they are valuable contributors in the work environment.

A disengaged employee would be the exact opposite.

Ministry of Health (MOH)

It is a great challenge when it comes to writing policy briefs without technical jargons and using layperson terms. By providing a step-by-step and customized guide, Dr. Jessica has created a platform for the government officials from Ministry of Health and Malaysian Palm Oil Board to draft policy briefs, starting from problem statement to conclusion. Using case studies help them to focus on the issue, adopt appropriate methodology as well as articulate their recommendations and proposals effectively. By end of the second day, the participants were able to draft an outline of their policy paper.
